LINK AND PIN BASEBALL STARTS AT C. & N. W. YARDS

Preliminary Game Shows Promising Material Among Yard Force.

No Schedule Arranged Yet.

Baseball has begun its season at the South Janesville yards and a game was played yesterday which brought out the fact that some promising material was waiting to be developed in the shop force. Among the most prominent of the new hands is the pitcher of yesterday's game, Itham Green, who has been washing boilers in his spare time during the past winter. By unanimous vote of the team it was made captain for the coming season. Bill Sullivan at first base; Jay Fish at second; Frank Ward on the third base; Bob Erdman behind the bat; and Goslin and Benny Berkman in the field. It looks as if Captain Green will be able to bring out a winning team this year. In the absence of Archibald Mason who was lost by promotion to Butler, a new manager will have to be chosen. Charley Hong may be given the position permanently. Martin McDermott is being developed as the chief pinch hitter of the force, having driven a number of flies several blocks in perfect imitation of Lajolo. The feature of the game was a barehanded catch by Fielder Goslin for which he was given the applause of the entire body of spectators. Eddy Sullivan acted as mascot and performed his duties with grace and effect. It has not been decided what the schedule will be or when the first big game will be played but it will probably come off pretty soon as the boys are already in mid-season shape.

A bulletin posted this morning gives the schedule of the Air Brake instruction car which is being sent over the Madison Division. This car will be here on April third and lectures will take place as follows:

Considerable discussion and investigation is under way in the headquarters of different railroads in this section of the country on the question of incorrect car weights and other objections to the present system of freight handling. It is claimed that the railroads are being hurt as much by the misweighting of cars as by the loss of weight. The uncleanliness of cars is another thing which

CASCARETS CLEANSE LIVER AND BOWELS

No Bilelessness, Headache, Sick, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Coated Tongue or Constipation.

Purged Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a still barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gasses, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give you a thorough cleansing inside and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your drug-gist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated. Don't forget the children—infants and babies know a miserable mother's little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

is attracting attention. Cars with six or seven inches of snow and ice in the bottom are sent to other roads for filling with merchandise.

P. J. Lawson is still laying off.

Assistant Boiler Washer Edward Courtney resigned his job yesterday, and his place will be filled by Itham Green who was told of his promotion this morning.

Pineaman Haddow returned to work this morning after laying off for several days.

Jack Lewis is awaiting Engineer Spahn on 508 for a few days.

Conductor Mahar returned to work on 625 and 629 after a short lay off on account of sickness.

The position of dispatcher at the roundhouse is being filled by Walter Wilke.

Machinist Joe Smith nearly caused a riot at the yards last night, when he made the entire shop force wait for him to catch up with the shop car which had started without him.

The new interlocking plant at Clyman Junction, was put into preliminary service this morning at ten o'clock.

BELOIT FARMER FINDS THAT HOME IS FILLED WITH STORE OF HONEY

Herman Nimz Makes Discovery in Walls of House When He Started Repair Work.

When Herman Nimz started to repair his house on his farm east of Beloit, yesterday, he found enough honey stored in between the ceiling of the first story of his home and the floor of the second story to supply his household all summer and still have enough to give away to his friends.

Mr. Nimz employed Carl Teske, a carpenter from Beloit, to do some repair work on the house. Mr. Teske, before the second floor and in doing so he found great piles of honey stored under the flooring. The family, at once abandoned building for a time and proceeded to harvest the honey. No one in the family had the slightest idea that they were harboring a swarm of bees and living under a full fledged honey factory all last summer.

OXFORD-CAMBRIDGE
BOAT RACE SATURDAY

Oxford Men Favorites In Annual Eight
Oared Match On Thames River—
Lively Interest Manifested.

(Special to the Gazette.)
London, March 29.—The usual lively interest is manifested among all classes in the annual eight-oared boat race between the Oxford and Cambridge varsity crews, which is to be rowed tomorrow over the historic Thames course from Putney to Mortlake. Hundreds of lovers of aquatic sports, with a liberal intermingling of the betting fraternity, lined the river banks today to watch the final practice work with a view to forming conclusions on the relative form of the two crews.

The Oxford men are good favorites, but the Cantabs have the advantage of weight and some of the critics believe they may be able to wear down their opponents in the latter part of the race. The great point of criticism is the finish in the two boats. It is pointed out that the Oxford finish is hard and clean, while the Cambridge finish is not nearly so good.

The first boat race between the Oxford and Cambridge university crews took place at Henley as long ago as 1829. Since the early '50s the races have been rowed every year without an intermission on the course from Putney to Mortlake. Of the sixty-eight times rowed Oxford has now won thirty-seven while Cambridge has secured thirty, with a dead heat in 1877.

The early struggles between the Dark Blues and the Light Blues were under the most primitive conditions. Shilling seats were used for the first time in 1877, but outriggers of a kind were introduced as far back as 1840. In 1849 Oxford won the race on a foal, and ten years later received another bloodless victory, the Cambridge boat having sunk.

THREE THOUSAND FARMERS

Stockmen Come Miles to Inspect Animals Carried in Special Car.—
Interesting Addresses.

(Special to the Gazette.)
Madison, Wis., March 29.—The special demonstration train which is touring the southern and western counties of the state this week for the purpose of encouraging the production of "More and Better Livestock in Wisconsin" has been met by large audiences of interested farmers at every station, between twenty-five hundred and three thousand having visited the exhibition cars the first four days of the trip. Stockmen have come miles to inspect the exhibits of livestock, charts, dairy utensils, model barns, etc., and to listen to free lectures with demonstrations by experts of the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association.

Subjects of the lectures are "The Profitable Production of Beef," "How to Succeed with Hogs," "Successful Sheep Management," and "Why Wisconsin Farmers Should Raise Better Livestock." Special lectures are given on the points of a good draft horse, a good hard hog, a good dairy cow, and a good beef animal. In his talk on "The Dairy Cow," Prof. George C. Humphrey lays special stress upon the selection of the proper type of cows, their proper breeding and care. In similar manner Prof. J. L. Torney explains the proper type of draft horses, and Dr. A. S. Alexander, the breeding of this animal. L. P. Martiny, Chippewa Falls, president of the association, generally talks on the subject of the hog, and Supr. George McKerron on sheep, each having animals before them to illustrate the points which they expound.

"CY" YOUNG A DIAMOND
STAR AT FORTY-FIVE.

Still Able to Pitch Ball Up to the Big League Standard—Now Preparing for Twenty-Second Season.

(Special to the Gazette.)
Boston, Mass., March 29.—Forty-five years old and still able to pitch ball up to the big league standard is the remarkable record of "Cy" Young, who is training in the South with the Boston Nationals in preparation for his twenty-second season as a professional player. Young was born in the town of Uilmora, Ohio, forty-five years ago today. After a season or two with clubs in cities near his home he went to Cleveland, where he played from 1890 to 1893. After leaving Cleveland he was with St. Louis two years, and went to Boston in 1900, when the American league placed a club in that city. He helped Boston to win the American league and world's championships and remained there until 1909, when he was assigned to the Cleveland club. In the latter part of last season Young returned to Boston to play with the National league club in that city and has been signed with the same organization for this year.

Nothing to Worry About.
"Are you not afraid that some of your children will fall into that open cistern?" asked the nervous boarder, looking over the picket fence in the back yard. "Oh, no, mum," came the complacent reply. "Anyhow, it ain't where we get our drinkin' water."—

Italian Winters.
The people of Florence, Italy, have a dislike for heating devices in their houses, although the weather in winter, especially when the tramontano is blowing, is uncomfortably cold. None of the houses have fireplaces, and the man who warms himself by means of the "scaldino," a pan of glowing ashes, is considered effeminate.

Uncomplimentary.

REHBERG'S

NOW, then, for the first chapter of the Spring suit story; it's a rather interesting tale and we're pretty sure you'll like it. First of all, grays are to be particularly strong, the man without a gray Spring suit won't really be completely outfitted. And then come blues. We're ready with more of them than we've ever shown, plain and fancy weaves, a lot of decidedly handsome models. Next come browns and tans; they, too, are to be popular, as well as a great number of mixture effects. And at $22.50 and $25 a great number of very unusual Spring suits. The range of price is from $10 to $30 and remarkable values are to be found in the displays at $20, $22.50 and $25.

SPRING overcoat preferences as far as colors are concerned, are very much the same as suits. Grays, in Cambridge and Oxford shades, and plain and fancy weaves are the choice of those who know "what's what" and crowding them close for second are a number of mixture effects that are really just as fine. $10 to $30.

Special $15 Suit Sale
Saturday

If ever quick action paid a profit, here's the time—after Saturday we won't have any of these suits to offer. You'll find very fine worsteds, vicunas, chevrons—numerous shades of gray, brown and tain in plain effects, mixtures, plaids, stripes and pin checks. You'll find all sizes, but not in every pattern. Here is an unequalled opportunity to buy a splendid spring suit at a great saving. They're worth $20. Until Saturday night we offer them at $15.00.

Spring Furnishings

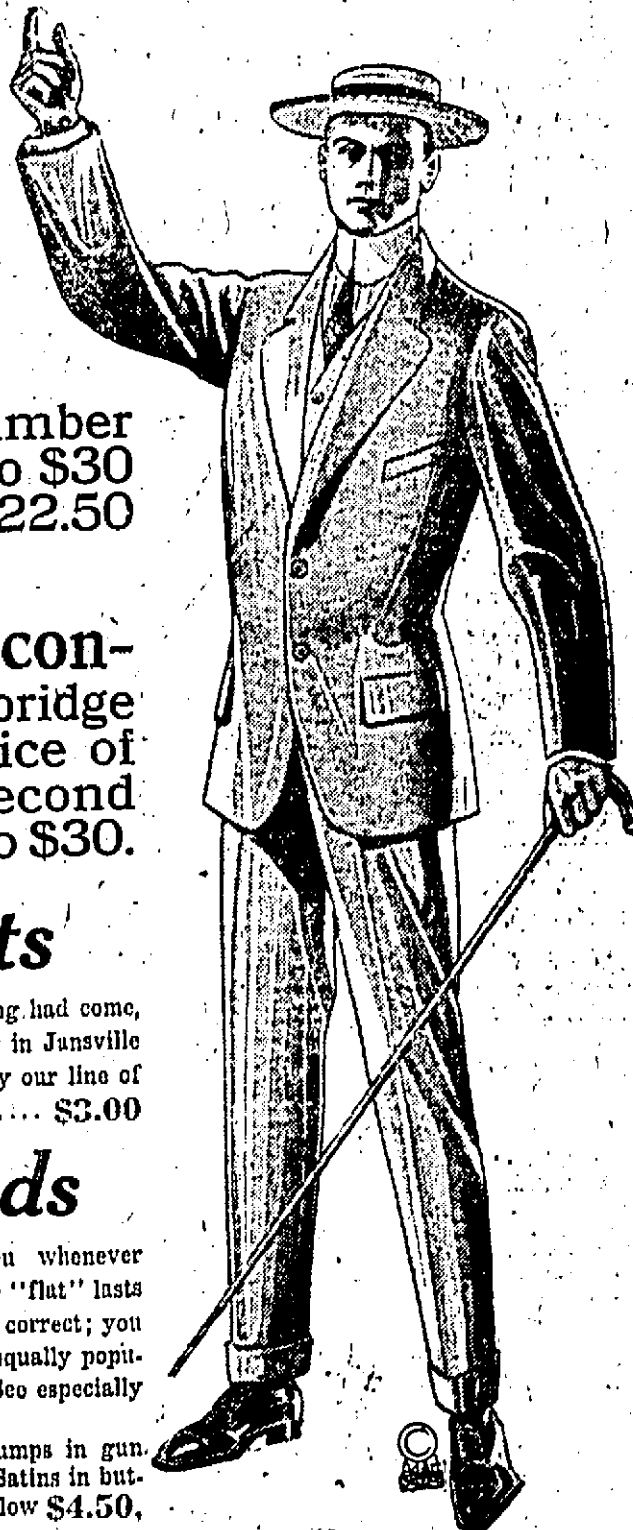

You should see these soft double cuff shirts with collar to match, they're in corded effects and neat pencil stripes and the prices are but $1 and $1.50. Spring gloves with stitched backs in gray and tan $1 and $1.50.

New Spring Hats

It's time you bought yours; it will make you feel as if spring had come, whether it's really here or not. There isn't another display in Janesville that's as complete and thorough as this one. See especially our line of "SMILE" Hats at $3.00.

The New Oxfords

They're all here now and we're ready to show them to you whenever you're ready to look. You'll find a very fine lot of very fine "flat" lasts as well as a great number of high; box toe models; either is correct; you can choose the one you like best. Tans and blacks will be equally popular. Men's spring shoes and oxfords $3.00 to $5.00. See especially the famous Stacy Adams shoe for men at $5.50. WOMEN'S SHOES, COLONIAL effects predominate; pumps in gun metal, tan and patent at $3.00. White Bucks and Black Satins in button and Colonial styles at $3.50. Foster shoes for women; low $4.50, high shoes $5.00.

THE NEW COMMISSION.
It is not going to be a bed of roses that the mayor and two councilmen to be elected next Tuesday will lie on. It means that the three men who will handle the city affairs for at least two years to come, will have plenty of good, hard work cut out for them to finish. The management of a big corporation is not placed in the hands of inexperienced men by successful corporations. Just so with Janesville. The three men who will guide the destinies of Janesville need to be carefully chosen and placed for their ability to fill the office they seek.
Numerous problems that are most complex will be brought for their consideration and decision, responsibilities which they can not shirk will be imposed and the three men will find their hands full from the time they take office. The machinery of the city government can not be changed radically in a day or a minute, and care should be taken that no mistakes are made.
Next Tuesday the voters have the opportunity of selecting their mayor and commissioners. The will of the majority rules in the days of the republican form of government and their judgment is supreme at all times. Every citizen should exert his right of franchise and cast his vote on this important question and not be swayed by personal feeling, arguments advanced by interests who evidently fear adverse criticism of their methods. It is a civic matter and the best men should be elected.

ROOSEVELT ANGRY.
When Roosevelt gets angry he always says a lot of things he is sorry for afterwards. He can not brook opposition and to his mind all who do not believe as he does are not right mentally. Even his much-bested primary, by which he thought he would win victory in New York state, failed him and in consequence he believes that corruption and dishonesty is the cause. He does not stop to consider that perhaps the people think for themselves and are tired of his blatant manner and domineering tone.

TWO HIGH SCHOOLS WIN IN CONTESTS

Milton and Milton Junction High Schools Each Won First and Second Places in Forensic Events.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milton, Wis., March 29.—The closest declamatory and oratorical contests ever waged between the high schools representing Milton and Milton Junction were those of last night in the college auditorium. In the inter-class contests held last year Milton won both first places and one second, thus setting the Rock River Valley League banner which each school had held four years; this year all of Milton's speakers of 1911 were ineligible and the Junction school determined to make up for last year's defeat and entered the field early and in a "do or die" spirit.
The speakers last night were very evenly matched and it was evident, when the judges retired, that they would find difficulty in reaching a decision. As a result of the markings of the jury, Milton and Milton Junction each won one first and one second place—Milton winning first in the declamatory and Milton Junction first in the oratorical contest, as indicated in the program given below. The final averages awarded the banner to Milton Junction.

Before the contests began the two schools indulged in good-natured cheering, first one school and then the other would give their yells. After each had cheered separately for each contestant the curtain rose, the Fremont band, which furnished the music for the occasion, began its first selection and the contest was on.
The new auditorium proved that it is a new investment and a splendid building for such gatherings. It is filling a long-felt want here and is an assembly room any town might be proud of.

The jury consisted of Principal F. J. Louth of the Rock County Training School for Teachers, Principal F. O. Holt of the Edgerton high school, and Miss Grace Edwards of the Janesville high school.

Decision of the Judges.

Foretells the Disagreeable.
"The first thing I do every morning is to tell my wife that she looks younger and more beautiful every day." "Doesn't she ever suspect that you are lying?" "Oh, yes; she knows it; but it keeps her from starting in to find fault with me, just the same."

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT
By Roy K. Moulton.

WITH US SOON AGAIN

On ogle and lens she's a shark;
There's nothing in this world she doesn't know;
As words of wisdom from her lips
She makes the population pause and do flow.
Dead language she reels off by the score;
She knows this fourth dimension thing by heart.
She's ready quite to strike out from the shore
And sail life's troubled sea without a chart.

Political conditions vex her not;
She knows how to cure all her country's ills;
Should fix the labor problem on the spot,
And set the wheels all turning in the mill.
She's better perfect and she leads her class
In every modern theory to date.
No thinker of the era can surpass
The dream we call the sweet girl graduate.

We've heard her essay many times before
And of her sage advice we'll never tire.
The new ones are the same as those of yore
And all were going to set the world on fire.
We cannot doubt her good intentions still.
This life is full of mighty stumbling blocks.
And like the others, in ten years, she will
Be satisfied to turn some good man's apples.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN KNOWS.
That lodge sessions do not always last until 3 o'clock in the morning.
That auditors and vigorous talk of poverty by her husband means no electric car this year.

That she can safely drop into her husband's office any time if she makes a regular practice of it.
That she cannot sharpen a lead pencil or trim a coin satisfactorily with a safety razor.
That it is certainly a great mystery what her husband does with all his money.
That her mother-in-law was really not such a magnificent cook as a certain party would have her believe.
That the woman next door is extravagant and is living beyond her husband's income.

PEOPLE WE MEET EVERY DAY.
The man who can tell how to run everything from a photograph to a political campaign.
The girl who has resolved never in her life to get married—until she has a chance.
The woman who gets along "perfectly lovely" with her husband, when there is company around.
The man who never was involved into buying a patent glass cutter.
The woman who never has a thing to wear, but manages to get around and evade the law pretty well, just the same.
The man who knew exactly how the fight was going to come out when the articles were signed, but neglected to tell anybody about it.

PERSONAL.
D. R.—You are right. Soup should be soon and not heard.
Angeline—Why did you write to our home address during our absence?
Shame on you. We had enough to explain without that.
Joe—The ambassador from Italy,
Mr. Confaloniere, was named after a Palladium car.
Percy—What are the New Yorkers doing with their discarded opera hats that fold up? They are using them for house-traps.
Mabel—No. John Kendrick Bangs doesn't wear 'em.
The man who knows exactly how the fight was going to come out when the articles were signed, but neglected to tell anybody about it.

A Mystery Solved

Say: "Where do you get your work clothes?" asked an engineer of his fireman "one day."
"They seem to fit so good and I'll be darned if I can get mine to fit right." "I buy mine," answered the fireman, "where you are well treated and hot tor fitted; you can buy your work clothes there and save there; you can get stationery there, cigars, tobacco and many other needed articles and if you are going out of the city and need a lunch to take with you, you can't do any better than to Spring Fashions Blooming in Profusion at The Big Store.

It only needed the first touch of that magic worker Spring to bring about a condition in this store for which we had made ample preparations to accommodate. Today, every department devoted to Fashion and spring wearables was crowded. A tacit acknowledgment and recognition of the style leadership of this store, and which has been won on merit alone. Judging by past achievements in Fashion's domain, expectancy prophesied great things at The Big Store this spring and expectancy has not been disappointed. Today this store invites you to a display of fashions as distinctive, as exclusive, as irresistibly charming and beautiful as can be seen anywhere. More lavish displays there may be, but none have been so lected with greater discrimination or in more thorough intune with the tastes of a store's clientele than this.

An American Invasion
Is the way the inrush of Americans into western Canada has been described.
LOOK AT THE FIGURES
1898, American immigrants to Canada, 14.
1906, American immigrants to Canada, 103,798.
1911, American immigrants to Canada, 150,000.
The reason for this inflow of population to North-Western Canada can only be the CHEAPNESS and FERTILITY of its agricultural lands.
Dauphin Lake District, Manitoba represents a portion of this country that was just tapped by railroads last year—both in soil and climate it surpasses the average western Canadian district.
The land is cheap and but a small sum is necessary to secure a home in this region where the values are as sure to rise as they were in the adjacent districts when they were opened a few years ago.
We expect to be taking parties to this country all summer and will be glad to send booklets dealing with the country, to any interested.

CAME HERE TO LOOK FOR LOST BROTHER

Adam Channing of Whitewater, secured Clue to His Whereabouts From Local Police Last Night.

After vainly searching hotel registers for the name of his missing brother, Samuel, and making many fruitless inquiries, Adam Channing of Whitewater, who last night visited Janesville in search of him, was able to secure a clue from the police which may result in his location.

Samuel Channing, who is an occasional sufferer from a mental derangement caused by nervous dyspepsia, went to the Dr. Hec. sanitarium at Delavan with his brother Adam two days ago, with the intention of remaining there for two weeks. Last night he telephoned his wife telling her that he was going away, but that he would return in a day or two. This caused his relatives considerable anxiety and his brother was sent in search of him.

Officer Sam Brown, after being given a description of the missing man was able to reply that one answering the description boarded the 12:45 Northwestern train this morning. Night ticket agent William Tuckwood said he had bought a ticket to Bloomer. As Channing has relatives in that vicinity it is thought he may have gone to visit them.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to tender our heartfelt thanks to our dear friends, relatives, neighbors, brothers and sisters, also the O. E. S. of Eaton, New Mexico, for their kindness, sympathy and beautiful floral tributes that so helped to lighten the burden of our sorrow at the loss of our son and brother, MR. and MRS. E. G. BROWN, and RACHEL.

The center of disturbance that was over Texas yesterday has now advanced to the upper Ohio valley, whence its influence extends over the entire eastern half of the country. Heavy rains in the South and high winds in the Lake region and Atlantic coast have accompanied the storm.

An area of high atmospheric pressure has moved southward over Lake Superior from the Hudson Bay region where its presence was unopposed yesterday on account of its retreats from that region. It has been attended by a sharp fall in temperature in northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan.

Another area of low atmospheric pressure occupies the region west of the Rockies and is attended by cloudiness and snow in the northern Rockies, and by rain on the north Pacific coast.

The I. H. C. NEWLOW ENDLESS APRON MANURE SPREADER is the coming type of Spreader, because it is built close to the ground to meet the demand for a low down machine.

It is lower than any other machine so that it can be loaded easily and much more evenly, as the man who is doing the loading, can see the bottom of the Spreader and place each fork full just where it is needed to even up the load. It also has the advantage over other spreaders that it can be loaded as well by a boy as a man.

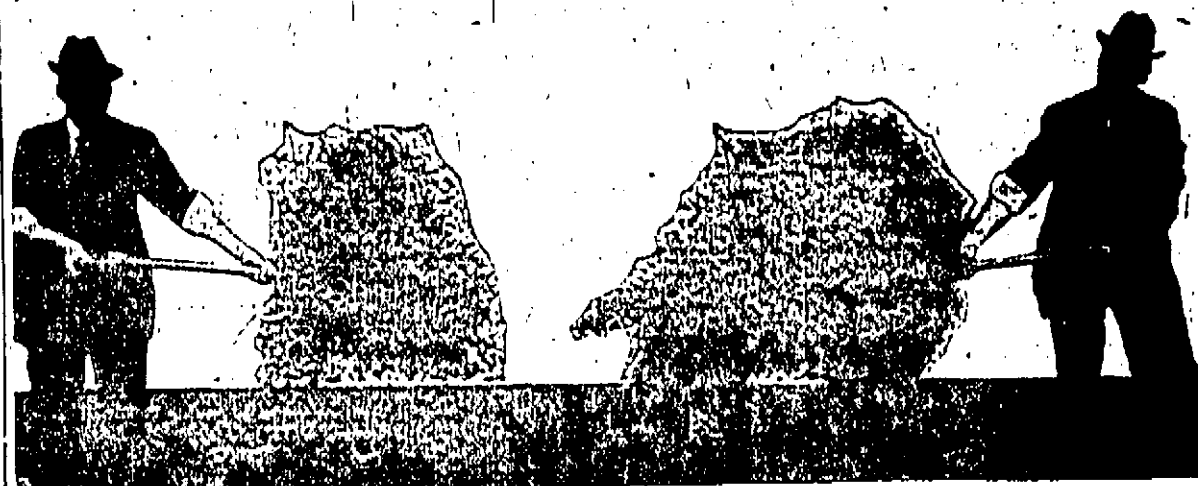

There being only one wheel in front the pole does not swing and thresh about when crossing dead furrows and rough ground.

Look this machine over before buying your Spreader this Spring and you will decide in its favor, over any other machine.

ALFALFA
CAN BE GROWN SUCCESSFULLY.

Well drained land, good seed bed and Farmogerm inoculation, are all that is required to raise this wonderful forage crop. You can easily choose a piece of well drained land and you can very soon work it to a good seed bed, but there is only one way that you can get pure inoculation which is just as necessary to the alfalfa as sunshine is—and that is by using Farmogerm inoculations. This product has been tested in every manner throughout the entire country, and has given universal satisfaction, and we are, therefore, presenting it to our customers this year. The method of transferring soil from an old alfalfa field to a new field is both costly and dangerous—weeds, plant and soil diseases are transferred in this manner and should be carefully avoided. We will gladly send full particulars in regard to seed and the necessary inoculations, together with full cultural directions to any of our customers.

It has been proven by private experiments and United States Department of Agr. Exp. that legumes when inoculated with pure cultures of nitrogen-gathering bacteria will be increased in yield from 20 per cent to 70 per cent, and at the same time will add to the soil 1000 lbs. of nitrate per acre. This is a most wonderful discovery, and should be immediately taken advantage of by all of our customers. To secure this wonderful result, we strongly advise the use of Farmogerm inoculations, which are endorsed by the largest farmers and the Agricultural Experimental Stations throughout the country. Do not plant a legume unless you inoculate it with Farmogerm.

Eighty acres of this place was recently sold for $225 an acre, and the remaining forty at $155 an acre. Possession will be given March 1912.

In the early part of last winter he helped to dig a well and his fellow workman said Mr. Kaefer could throw out two shovels of earth to his one. But in January his health began to fail. Nicknames in History.
The history of nicknames would be an enormous compilation, for it would be the history of the human race. The most ancient chronicles contain notable examples, and, doubtless, prehistoric man, the lake dweller, the cave man, thus dubbed his neighbor. None have escaped, from the highest in the land to the lowest. Kings and statesmen, saints and sinners, poets, playwrights, wits—all have had these "else-names."

Napoleon Almost an Englishman.
It was just a chance that kept Napoleon from being born an English subject. He was born of Italian parents, on Corsica, an island in the Mediterranean. A few years before Napoleon's birth the Corsicans asked the English to rule over them, but the British refused.

At The Theatre

SOTHERN'S WILY SUPER.

E. H. Sothern, who will shortly appear here with Julia Marlowe, tells an amusing story of a super who was once in his employ.

"Having parted with one of the members of the company in Chicago," said Mr. Sothern, "I took into the fold a man who was acting as a sort of leader of supper. I used to hear people address him as 'Doc.' One day I asked him why he was entitled to this distinction. He said that he at one time worked in a bicycle repair shop."

"Shortly after, I asked him one evening, while I was dressing after the play, to take my little dog out for a walk. He did not return, and as I passed a bar room on my way home, I saw my dog sitting on a chair. I entered and found the dog was contemplating the 'actor' who was leaning on the bar with his back to me; he was surrounded by a dozen men who seemed to be treating."

"As I stood watching the picture, one of his 'treasures' said, addressing my friend: 'Really Mr. Frohman, do you think you will not bring Mr. Sothern to Chicago, again?' 'No, sir,' said the supposed Mr. Frohman, 'this town don't suit me! It ain't no good! My 'star' can't play to more than twenty or twenty-five thousand a week here, and that don't do us no good!'"

"While his listeners stood open-mouthed at this idea of poor business, I called out, 'Smith!' The glass fell from his hand, the dog jumped off the chair, and 'Mr. Frohman,' the great manager, followed me into the street."

River Still Rising. The Rock river continues to rise at this point and is now 16 1/2 inches over the government mark. Last year at this time it was but eight inches over the mark, the highest point, 2 1/2 inches being reached in February.

These are bargain days. Read Gazette ads. and profit.

Cromwell's Many Nicknames.
Few men have been more labeled with nicknames than Oliver Cromwell, many of them, to say the least, uncomplimentary ones, which can scarcely be wondered at when party feeling ran so high. "Old Nell," "Copper Face," the "Drover," are familiar examples.

Poor Children Have Best Teeth?
A doctor in the British Medical Journal makes the statement that the most perfect teeth he has seen have been in the mouths of the children of the very poor—children who never possessed a tooth brush. This physician states that these youngsters eat more carbohydrates and less detergent material; also, they eat fewer sweets, and, possibly, which is more to the point, there is something in their organizations which resists both sweets and starch.

EDGERTON MAN WAS FOUND DEAD IN BED

Frank Hutson, Well Known Edgerton Man, Missing Several Days, Found Dead in His Room Yesterday.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Edgerton, March 29.—Frank Hutson, a familiar figure of this city, was found dead in his room in the old Taylor house yesterday afternoon. The last time he was seen alive was last Saturday, and in the evening was heard playing his violin. Not having been seen, nor coming to his meals at the restaurant, relatives and friends became alarmed and when the door of his room was forced open the lifeless body was found in bed with his head on the floor.

The cause of his death was due to an attack of apoplexy, an ailment with which he had been afflicted since infancy. He was in his thirtieth year. He was the second oldest son of the late Thomas Hutson, a tobacco dealer and founder of the Bank of Edgerton.

Three brothers and three sisters survive him, being Fred C. of Madison; Charles and Roy of Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Myra Hahn, Chicago; Mrs. J. M. Conway and Mrs. Theo. A. Clarke of this city. The remains were taken to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Conway, where the funeral was held at eleven o'clock this morning, conducted by Rev. G. K. MacIsaac. Interment was made in the family lot in Forest cemetery.

A telephone message received here yesterday conveyed the sad news of the death of Mrs. Herman Lillicker, which occurred in that city at an early hour yesterday morning, the cause of the death being cancer of the breast with which she had suffered for a number of years. She was born in Belleville, Jefferson county, and had resided here until April 12, next, she would have been fifty-four years of age.

Coming to Edgerton when a young lady, she was united in marriage to Herman Lillicker on May 1, 1878. The husband passed away Feb. 20, last. One son, Ralph, who also resides in Edgerton, together with three brothers and two sisters, survive. Mr. Lillicker, the youngest brother, who resided here, accompanied by his wife, went to Beloit today and will accompany the remains here tomorrow on the 11:15 morning train. Interment will be made in the family lot in Forest cemetery.

WOMAN'S PAGE

HEART AND HOME TALKS

BY BARBARA BOYD

Your Child's Career.

JOHNSON doesn't like bookkeeping," she was saying to the woman beside her on the train. "But I am just determined he shall learn it. I have a fight with him every night. But I just make him go to his night class. He wants to be a carpenter. Think of it!"

And so John, who steals away whenever he can to where houses are building, and who put in his entire summer vacation eagerly working with a builder, and who loves the very smell of lumber, and who rejoices at seeing the house grow with every blow of his hammer, is being compelled by his mother to sit at a desk and mull over figures.

He'll probably be a very bad bookkeeper, whereas, he might have been a very good carpenter.

How far is she justified in what she is doing?

She thinks she is acting for the boy's good. She honestly believes that bookkeeping will be easier work for him, that it will throw him with a better class of associates; in a word, that as a bookkeeper, he will be a peg farther up in the world than he would be as a carpenter.

But what after all, brings satisfaction in life? Isn't one of the things, a selfish for your work? If a man loves his work, if his heart and soul are in it, he has a big help toward finding joy in life. John doesn't care a peg for social advancement. He has enough individuality to pick out his associates, one here and one there, wherever he goes. He will never take them wholesale. And to chain him to a bookkeeper's desk all his life is to make life less all savor for him.

When a child shows no predilection, it is well enough for parents to choose his work. Even then, they should carefully watch him and note his bent, and try to choose the line of work he shows most ability for. No other consideration should rule but what the child can do best and most likes to do. But to deliberately try to force him out of a work upon which his heart is set, and in which he delights, is really fraught with serious consequences. You are changing the course of nature. And this leads to a catastrophe. It may not be apparent to the world. He may settle down apathetically to what has been chosen for him to do, and there may be still in him to do this work well. But his life is nevertheless a wreck, as much a wreck to him, as though he became reckless, defiant, and fell into evil ways.

This boy, if allowed to become a carpenter would probably never be satisfied with the mere hand part of the work. Though this work done well is by no means to be despised. But he loves this work so, that he would never be content merely to hammer and pound and saw. He would begin to dream houses. He would see where those he was building could be improved. And he would soon want to plan them, as well as actually put them together. You would find him taking an architect's course—at night, if necessary. And his mother would never need to drive him to these classes. In time, he would become a leader in his craft.

For, it is the boy who goes to his work in this spirit who eventually climbs to the top of the ladder, no matter what it is that he has chosen to do. So that the boy, or girl, either, for that matter, who shows a decided preference for some work, not a mere childish whim, but a love for it, that surmounts obstacles and endures hardships rather than relinquish it, should not be thwarted. Every able child should be given him along the path he has chosen. He will one day be one of the great men in the field of his choice.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON.

It is a terrible thing," a rather plain little girl said to me the other day, to realize that no matter how long I live or what I do, I can never be pretty. I would make almost any sacrifice to be beautiful. I would save up every penny I earn if I could buy prettiness. I would give ten years of my life if I might be lovely to look at in the time I had left.

You may say that is very strange talk. Perhaps it is. And yet I sympathize with that girl. Furthermore, I doubt if there lives a plain girl who has not been in that mood sometime or other.

And I don't blame them. Beauty is a wonderful possession, a great power and a continual source of pleasure. No wonder we all want it. But what puzzles me is why more of us, when we realize, as this girl did, that we can't have beauty, don't turn our eyes toward some of the charms which we can have and which are quite rare enough to be precious.

Not every girl can be beautiful. But every girl can have a good carriage. Every girl can stand erect. Every girl can sit gracefully with the end of her spine against the back of the chair and her feet on the floor. Every girl can walk without affectation, or undue hurry or without striding or swinging arms or loped body.

Not every girl can be beautiful, but every girl can have repose of manner. She can rest the eyes of those who look at her by not fidgeting, not moving restlessly about, nor fussing perpetually with her hair or neck or belt, as so many girls do.

Not every girl can be beautiful, but every girl can have a pleasing voice, well modulated and pitched low enough to avoid the ugly head tones that are so common.

Not every girl can be beautiful, but every girl can use correct grammar and fairly good English. She can, moreover, make her speech a rare quantity by eschewing slang. Beauty unadorned is still adorned the most, they say. In respect to slang, language unadorned is surely adorned the most.

Not every girl can be beautiful, but every girl can be neat and at least moderately well groomed.

Not every girl can be beautiful, but every girl, if she will give enough study and thought to it, can have becoming clothes and a distinctive style. A woman who always looked perfectly charming was once congratulated by another woman on the pretty appearance she made, and answered: "I'm so glad you think so, for you know I'm not clever or witty or anything like that, and I decided long ago that the best I could do was to try to look well all the time. I've put a good deal of time and thought into all my clothes, and I'm very glad that I've really succeeded in giving pleasure that way." There is such a thing as the fine art of being attractively dressed and it's not an art to be despised, either.

Every girl can't be beautiful, but these that I have mentioned are just a few of the charms that she can have.

I hope every girl will not turn up her pug or Grecian nose at these charms merely because they are within the reach of everybody. I assure her that she will not find that so many of her mates have taken advantage of their opportunities to make such charms in the least commonplace.

Meaning of "Clubman."

In the far spread New York of today the public takes less interest in the private affairs of the children of Vanity Fair than it used to do. And so it is elsewhere. You may see the splash in a pond; it is lost in the ocean which is a modern metropolis. Today the term "clubman" means nothing. In the days that are no more it was a definition that stood for something. New York Evening Sun.

A New Honor.

The children had been taken by their father to witness the Decoration day parade. On their return they vied with each other in telling mamma all about it. "And oh, mamma! what do you think?" cried the five-year-old, in great excitement. "They adorned the old soldiers!"—The Bellator.

Forgetting.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

REMARKABLE GAINS FROM MONODIET.

A well known lecturer on cooking, Mrs. Dowe, of Boston, in a recent address mentioned two cases in which the adoption of a monodiet had resulted in remarkable improvement in health, one a boy who developed remarkable physical powers, the other a woman advanced in years, who showed a decided gain in health by following an exclusive diet of corn meal and milk. Although her work requires her to give instruction in the preparation of elaborate meals, Mrs. Dowe believes in the simple diet.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

For taught which sets one heart at ease.
And gives happiness and peace,
Is lowly seated in her eyes.

—J. H. Lowell.

EMERGENCY SHORTCUTS.

The modern kitchen, with its up-to-date equipment is the pride of every householder who is fortunate enough to possess one; but the real genius in cookery delights in overcoming difficulties and "make do" with few tools to work with. Did you ever see a camper open a sack of flour, pour in the water, add the salt, soda or baking powder, stir up the dough with a wooden paddle made with a jack-knife, and bake the dough before the fire with never a dish or utensil to use in its making? When we are roughing it, it is what we can do with out and make less baggage that is the main thought.

The manufacturer is constantly on the watch to see where time and material as well as the energy of his workmen may be saved. When our housekeepers put thought and planning on their work, saving steps for themselves and their employees, we will have less servant problems to solve.

To make short cuts in housekeeping doesn't mean that work is slighted or half done. Housekeeping is a business, a profession, and women are too prone to follow the ways of their mothers before them, hence the disordered, unsystematic condition prevails.

In the business of housekeeping it is just as true that the greatest efficiency is the result of scientific management as in any other line of work. One of the first things that a housewife who directs others has to learn, is how and what has to be done, and the time it takes for a person of ordinary ability to do it.

The unreasonable demands of some mistresses, who expect and demand the impossible, are legion. A skilled worker can, and does, accomplish much more in a given time than one who puts no thought into her work. But skilled workers are scarce and many are in training in our homes.

The arrangement of the utensils used in cooking within the easiest possible reach, the saving of steps by using a tray to remove and carry in dishes and food to and from the table, in these as well as many others with a little study one may see many shortcuts.

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING.

Low Tables and Beds Make Back Aches—Savory Seasonable Cookery.

By Allen E. Whitaker.

The greater ease of working without bending is illustrated by the contrast between the hospital and the home bed. In the hospital all beds are so high that the nurse never bends to her work about the patient or in bed making. Many beds in private homes are so low that an hour or two of work over a patient will greatly fatigue a nurse.

The higher slunks demanded first by the cooking teachers, who have thought out and introduced many conveniences, and the adjustable ironing tables are two great preventions of backaches. Kitchen tables and set laundry tubs are yet made too low for comfort to the worker.

The kitchen table can be raised easily by having a set of small blocks made to put under the legs and if a small depression is made in each block there is no danger of an accident.

The small cutting table, usually found in the sewing room, is not large enough for cutting out large or long pieces of work so for this work most women break their backs over the dining table. A kitchen table with one leaf is a great convenience in the sewing room and should always be set on blocks to bring it high enough so that no bending will be done while at work.

An oyster pie is a dressy way of serving oysters. The crust or shell must be baked first for which make rich paste and roll out as thin as for an ordinary pie. Select a tin of the size and shape needed for the pie and this should be smaller and somewhat deeper than a pie tin. Set the pan on the paste and cut round to make a cover for the pie. Invert the dish and cover with paste, cut back to make it fit on the tin without bubbles of air under it. Trim next to the pan, roll up the pieces of paste and roll out again and cut small pastry leaves to use as a garnish. Put the round piece and the inverted pan onto a dripping pan also the garnish and bake. Remove the pan invert the shell and cover them garnish.

For the oyster filling make a sauce from one cup of milk, one cup of thin cream, two level tablespoons of flour and one-quarter cup of butter. Cook ten minutes, season with salt and pepper and a few grains of mace which is especially good with oysters. Add one pint of oysters, picked over and drained and when they begin to curl add two well beaten eggs and cook one minute then turn at once into the baked shell and cover.

It is just as easy to buy dates as raisins yet they are rarely used because the housewife does not think of them. A baked date pudding or cake is much like the favorite apple cake and is served with a liquid sauce.

Cream one-quarter cup of butter with the same amount of sugar, add one beaten egg and two-thirds cup of milk, two cups of pastry flour sifted with four level teaspoons of baking powder and a saltspoon of salt. Now add one and one-half cups of stoned and chopped dates that have been rolled lightly in flour. Bake in a sheet, cut in squares for serving.

For the sauce mix one cup of sugar with two level tablespoons of cornstarch, add slowly two cups of boiling water and cook fifteen minutes. Add one-quarter cup of butter, a pinch of salt, one tablespoon of lemon juice and a few grains of nutmeg. Or flavor with vanilla.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

It seems quite probable now that the national conference of woman's suffrage which was announced to meet in Chicago early in May, will be deferred until June. The change of program is due to the fact that the meeting of the National Republican Convention, when the city will be filled with representative public men from all parts of the country. It is the announced intention of the suffragists to bring all possible pressure to bear on the convention, with a view to securing an equal suffrage plank in the republican platform. A feature of the occasion will be a parade in which they hope to have more than fifty thousand women in line representing the organization in every state in the union. The city has gone out for representatives from every branch of the organization throughout the country and it is announced by those in charge of the plan that replies already received indicate a gathering that will eclipse the national republican convention itself. It is claimed that it will be the world's greatest suffrage parade. A similar parade for which much is claimed in point of attendance and significance, will be held in New York City May 4th. This latter parade is the outcome of the unusual activity in suffrage circles in the East this year, where the question has been passed on by the legislatures of Ohio, Maryland, New Jersey, and New York, during the current month, and though they secured a victory in Ohio alone, where the question goes to a vote of the people on a constitutional amendment this fall, they claim to have been technically victorious in the other states by reason of the fact that the proposition met with greater favor than it had in previous years, which is true of New York State at least.

The Anti-Suffragists are by no means idle. They are extending their organization in a general way everywhere, having been especially active during the past week in Iowa, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New Hampshire, where several distinctive branches were established and a similar campaign of opposition outlined. In Pittsburgh a lecture bureau was organized with a view to securing to that city, the most notable of the platform opponents to woman suffrage, and to promote the work through the agency of public lectures in the principal cities and towns of Pennsylvania and nearby states. Ohio anti-suffragists are preparing to make a determined fight in that state against the proposed constitutional amendment admitting women to equal franchise. Literature will be distributed broadcast over the state from Cleveland, Toledo, Columbus and Cincinnati, and the present indications are that the cities and large towns, and especially the manufacturing centers are to be made the principal points of attack, since it is generally conceded that it is there that the pro-suffrage sentiment is strongest.

That the equal suffrage sentiment proved to be so strong in China, is a matter of general surprise, and is naturally very gratifying to the suffragists everywhere. But following very closely on the first dispatches announcing the great victory for the women, came some very disquieting news to the effect that the conditions and limitations which will be imposed on the privilege are so severe and exclusive as to render the victory a very qualified one. And the feeling of disappointment found expression last week in the militant demonstrations on the part of the suffragists of that country, which almost rivaled the recent outbreak in London.

A resolution favorable to women suffrage was unanimously adopted by the recent convention of the United Mine Workers of America in their annual convention at Indianapolis, Indiana, which was participated in by two thousand delegates representing a membership of nearly half a million. Adding to this the fact that all the magazines published by the Doubleday & Page, have adopted a policy strongly favorable to equal suffrage and announce that henceforth much space will be devoted to the cause, there appears to be some foundation for the claim the women are making that they are assured of very substantial support independent of their immediate organization.

Matter of Solidity.

During a recent transatlantic trip I kept a diary, relates a noted actor. We were only a few days out when I became very chummy with a noted tenor. We were both traveling alone, and so sought each other's company, a great deal. In my diary I wrote: "We are very thick, I think he is the thicker of the two."

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

THE HATED HIRED HESSEANS.

By A. W. MACY.

"Hired Hessians" were much despised by the Americans during the Revolutionary war. The employment of mercenaries, or foreign soldiers who fight for pay, was formerly much more common than it is now. During the American Revolution England had much difficulty in recruiting 100,000 men, so she made arrangements with various petty German rulers by which they undertook to furnish troops, to serve under their own officers in America. For each soldier killed England agreed to pay $35, and for each one wounded, $12. She was also to pay all expenses, and in addition pay the Landgrave of Hesse $500,000 per annum and the other petty princes in proportion. This practice was looked upon by the Americans as degrading and infamous, and they took particular delight in punishing the hired soldiers whenever opportunity offered. The total number of such troops brought over to America during the Revolution was 29,887, of whom about 1,200 were killed or mortally wounded, 6,354 died from other causes, about 5,000 deserted, and 17,313 returned to their European homes at the end of the war.

New Way to Make Apple Dumplings

Served With Hard Sauce or Cream and Sugar

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine.

Here is a new way to make apple dumplings that will surely please every housewife, for it is not necessary to have whole apples, and the juice cannot run out and burn as with apple dumplings where the apple is placed in the center and the dough turned up around it. The biscuit part forms a crispy shell that holds the apples and juice.

K C Apple Dumplings

One and one-half cups sifted flour; 1/2 teaspoonful salt; 3 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; 1/2 cup shortening; about 1/2 cup milk; apples.

Fill the cups of a buttered muffin pan with pared and sliced apples, sprinkle with salt and turn two or three table-spoonfuls of water into each cup. Sift together, three times, the flour, salt and baking powder; work in the shortening, and mix to a soft dough with the milk. Drop the dough from a spoon with the apples in the cups, giving it a smooth exterior. Let bake about twenty-five minutes. Invert the pan on a large serving-dish. Put a spoonful of hard sauce above the apple in each dumpling and finish with a grating of nutmeg.

This is only one of the many new, delicious and surprising recipes contained in the K C Cook's Book, which may be obtained free by sending the colored certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the Janesville, Wis., Co., Chicago. Be sure to get the recent K C edition, as it contains Cook's Book certificate.

CHICKEN PINNED UNDER BARN SINCE CYCLONE WAS TAKEN OUT ALIVE.

Fowl, Belonging on W. O. Douglas Farm Near Hanover Lived in Close Quarters All Winter.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Footville, March 29.—Enforced liberation tells the story of a lone chicken on the W. O. Douglas farm a short distance northeast of Hanover. The fowl was discovered yesterday by Mr. Douglas imprisoned beneath the floor of his barn which was destroyed in the cyclone of November 11th last. It was just alive and was as thin and weary as a chicken could be, but it will live without a doubt following an ordeal so contrary to its nature and habits.

Mr. Douglas' barn was swept away by the November storm leaving only the floor and a pile of hay and debris on top. It was while clearing away the material previous to building a new barn that the fowl was discovered completely imprisoned under the floor where she had evidently gone for refuge on that terrible day nearly five months ago. She was fed carefully yesterday and today seemed much improved after her long imprisonment.

CASE WEATHER IS STILL IN DEMAND

Estimated That 200 Acres of 1911 Tobacco Crop is Still Hanging in Sheds.

"The receiving of the early purchases has got so far along now that most dealers are able to see the end of the work, except that portion which is still hanging in the sheds," says the Edgerton Reporter. "One firm reports that it has over 200 acres yet in the sheds awaiting casing weather. From 75 to 85 per cent of the crop already has probably been delivered and settled for to date. Buying of the remaining fraction is proceeding slowly and prices do not vary much from those recently quoted. Leslie Viney sold a 4 acre crop to the Green Tobacco company at $3.50. N. Gillan of York, Pa., has picked up about 3000 of 11 goods, mainly from packers during the week.

"The market for old leaf brings no new features. The movements are generally of a small nature to meet the pressing needs of manufacturers. The indications point to a late spring, as growers so far have not been able to do anything towards the preparing of plant beds for another crop.

"The shipments out of storage reach 1145 cases and at yearloads to all points for the week. Since last week 1140 cases and six carloads to for warehouse handling."

ROOSEVELT BREAKS SILENCE ON TARIFF

a right to expect from their efforts, we may just as well make up our minds that the fault lies, not in their personalities, but in the conditions under which they work; and profit comes, not from denouncing them, but from seeing that the conditions are changed. This is especially true of tariff making. It has been repeatedly shown, by experiments repeated again and again, that the methods of tariff making by congress, which have now obtained for so many years, cannot, from the very nature of the case, bring really satisfactory results.

Grave Dissatisfaction.

"With the present tariff, made by the same methods as its predecessor and as that predecessor's predecessor, there is grave dissatisfaction. The people know that there are some things in it which are not right, and therefore they tend to suspect the rest. I think, more numerous things in it which are right. They know that the system on which it was made, the same system on which its predecessors were made, encouraged a scramble of selfish interests, to which the public is necessarily more or less subordinated. There was a time when this scramble was regarded as the natural course in tariff making, and was not resented. The people demand, and rightly, that the profit of the special interests shall be subordinated to the general welfare in every case. It is this attitude—precisely a new attitude—of the people which must be met in dealing with the present tariff. Very little improvement, indeed, will follow any attempt to revise the tariff by methods hitherto used.

Must Change Methods.

"The thing to do is to change the methods. I believe that this country is fully committed to the principle of protection; but it is to protection as a principle, to protection primarily in the interest of the standard of living of the American working man. I believe that when protection becomes, not a principle but a privilege and a preference—or, rather, a bundle of privileges and preferences—then the American people disapprove of it.

Now, to correct the trouble it is necessary, in the first place, to get in mind clearly what we want; and, in the next place, to get in mind clearly the method by which we hope to obtain what we want. What we want is what I have already said—a square deal in the tariff as in everything else; a square deal for the wage earner; a square deal for the employer and a square deal for the general public. To obtain it, we must have a thoroughly efficient and well-equipped tariff commission.

A Material Issue.

"The tariff ought to be a material issue and not a moral issue; but if, instead of a square deal, we get a crooked deal, then it becomes very emphatically a moral issue. What we desire when I say 'we' I am speaking of the American people—in a tariff is such a measure of protection as will equalize the cost of production here and abroad; and as the cost of production is primarily labor, this means primarily a tariff sufficient to make up for the difference in labor cost here and abroad. The American public wants the American laboring man put on an equality with other citizens, so that he shall have the ability to achieve the American standard of living and the capacity to enjoy; and to do this, we must see that his wages are not lowered by improper competition with inferior wage workers abroad—with wage workers who are paid poorly and who live as no Americans are willing to live. But the American public does not wish to see the tariff so arranged as to benefit primarily a few wealthy men.

Tariff Commission.

"As a means toward the attainment of the end in view, we have as yet devised nothing in any way so effective as a tariff commission. There should be a commission of well-paid experts; men who should not represent any special interest or industry; who should be masters of their subjects; men of the very highest character, who should approach the matter with absolute disregard of every outside consideration. I do not want to see these men of one party or another, or of one trade or another; but experts, single-minded in finding out and telling the truth. These men should take up in succession each subject with which the tariff deals, and investigate the conditions of production here and abroad; they should find out the facts and not merely accept the statements as to the facts of interested parties; and they should report to congress on each subject as soon as the subject has been covered. Then, action can be taken at once on the particular schedule concerned, while the commission immediately proceeds to investigate another. By these means log-rolling would be avoided, and each subject treated on its merits, while there would be no such shock to general industry as is implied in the present custom of making sweeping changes in the whole tariff at once.

Investigate Industries.

"Finally, it should be the duty of some governmental department or bureau to investigate the conditions in the various protected industries, and see that the laborers are getting the benefit of the tariff supposed to be enacted in their interest. And if, from an investigation of certain industries, it appears that the tariff, supposed to be imposed for the benefit of the wage worker, results in such shape that the benefit does not reach him, the tariff on that industry should be taken off. Moreover, to secure good treatment abroad, we should keep the maximum and minimum provision.

"There is but little to add to what I have thus said. We believe this country is committed to the principle of the protective tariff, treated honestly and as a principle and not as a bundle of preferences, so that the benefits and burdens may be fairly and evenly distributed, and special privileges eliminated. We do not believe in any unwarranted profit for anybody, but we do believe in a standard of protection adequate to maintain the high standard of living of American citizens.

Farmer and Wageworker.

"The prime need in any future revision of the schedules, or in any future arrangement whatsoever affecting the tariff is to protect the interest of the farmer and the wageworker. There must be no alteration of the tariff which compels the farmer to bear the whole burden. The welfare of the man who lives by tilling the soil is vital to the welfare of the nation, and everything that can strengthen him in his social and industrial life should be done. The American farmer is willing to bear his fair share of whatever is done, but he must not be asked to do more, in any manufacturing or mining or similar interest the welfare of the wageworker should be the prime test of the working of the tariff. We wish to see prosperity come to all our great industries, but unless the prosperity gets down past the office, then it is not the right kind of prosperity. In other words, while the wageworker is asked to have the employer get his fair share of the prosperity, yet in turn the wageworker has the right to insist, and we insist for him, that a fair share of the prosperity gets down past the office to be distributed among the men who work with their hands."

PRESS COMMENT.

For Vice-President.

Milwaukee Free Press: The voter will notice on his ballot next Tuesday that he can vote directly not only for his choice for president, but also for vice-president. There are no names of candidates for vice-president printed on the ballot, and the voter must write in the name of his choice if he wishes to vote for a vice-presidential candidate. As there is no vice-presidential state, any good hustler, with a little work and the use of a few postage stamps, ought to be able easily to get endorsement for Wisconsin's choice, for vice-president. The opportunity is now open. It only needs to be grasped.

Years of Promise.

San Diego Leader: The commission form of government is the form of government at present in San Diego. Two years only have passed, and we say, with little fear of contradiction, that they have been two years of performance, and as to promise, that they show for future better things. A serious blow will be struck at this form of government, and at the prosperity of the city if the plans of the Social-Democrats as at present outlined should carry.

Commendable Censorship.

Marquette Eagle Star: The National Board of Censorship for moving pictures, has announced that the pictures of the Milwaukee court assassination and incidents followed will be barred by the board. This action will be warmly commended by the public. The board really stands for something when it takes action of this kind.

MESSMER OPPOSES WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE

Milwaukee Archbishop in Address at New Orleans Last Week Gave Opinions on Important Topics.

Archbishop Sebastian Messmer of the Milwaukee diocese, was guest of honor at a banquet, tendered him last week by the executive committee of the Federation of Catholic Societies of New Orleans. Subsequently Archbishop Messmer at a meeting of the general board of the state federation, lent his presence and delivered an address, which was declared to be one of the most eloquent and forceful ever listened to by the federation.

He was given an enthusiastic greeting. The main features of his address were the strong reasons he advanced against granting the ballot to women, and his decided expression in favor of the organization of a national federation of women's organizations, separate and distinct from the men's national organization, but which would work in unison with it.

Recall of Judges.

In a letter to the New Orleans Morning Star, the Archbishop points out the danger ahead in the recall of judges. On this question he wrote:

"The power of recall is placed entirely into the hands of the people by its direct vote, just as the progressive platform submits to the direct popular vote the election of United States senators, the nomination of candidates for all elective offices, the initiative, and the referendum.

"But of all these proposed features, the recall of judges is the most radical and dangerous one. Let me say at once that in my mind the distinction between the recall of judges and the recall of judicial decisions is purely academic and theoretic, a play of words; to all practical purposes and consequences both are the same, just as both rest upon the same false and dangerous assumptions.

All Important Question.

"Our Catholic men's societies and clubs would deserve well by taking up in their meetings the study of this all-important question concerning the very foundation upon which the con-

ALL-RUN-DOWN AND GENERALLY MISERABLE

New Tonic Tona Vita In Use At Health Resorts For This Trouble.

If you are nervous and run-down with little vitality or ambition, and feel generally miserable and half-sick, you are suffering from nervous debility. If so you should investigate the new tonic "Tona Vita" and find out what a great record it has made since first introduced scarcely a year ago.

Do you know that "Tona Vita" is now pronounced by hundreds of physicians as the most remarkable tonic known. Do you know that "Tona Vita" is used in high-class sanitariums and health resorts as a nerve food and tonic? Do you know that during the past year more than fifty thousand people have stated over their own signatures that "Tona Vita" has completely restored their health.

Mr. James L. Hickey, of 289 North Division Street, Buffalo, N. Y., the well known National League Unpire, is one of these. This is what he says: "The nature of my profession frequently necessitated irregularity in sleeping and eating and as a result I became a victim of nervous debility. I had bad headaches and indigestion. My nerves troubled me almost constantly by hot weather. I had tried other means to restore my normal condition when a friend suggested the tonic 'Tona Vita.' I took his advice and am glad of it. My appetite improved at once. My headaches became less frequent and have gradually disappeared and I am no longer nervous or depressed. My stomach is now in perfect condition. In fact, I am thoroughly rejuvenated."

We have an agent in every city who will refund the purchase price if "Tona Vita" fails to completely build you up.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Father should remember that Listeners don't always hear what they want to.

Wife Badly Needed.
An excited papa almost broke up a woman suffrage meeting by rushing in and calling for his wife to hurry home because the baby had the colic and he couldn't find the colic cure.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE!
People Notice It. Drive Them Off With Olive Tablets.

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pimples will vanish after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Nothing ever cleansed the blood, the bowels and the liver like Olive Tablets.

Olive Tablets are the only successful substitute for calomel; there's never any sickness or pain after taking them.

Olive Tablets do all that calomel does and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cured with "a dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are made of pure vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result.

Try them. Take one nightly for a week. Then look at yourself in the glass and see how you feel.

"Every little Olive tablet has a movement all its own."

The Olive Tablet Company of Columbus, Ohio; Dr. F. M. Edwards, President.

Woman Finally Recovers From Nervous Breakdown

Impoverished nerves destroy many people before their time. Often before a sufferer realizes what the trouble is, he is on the verge of a complete nervous breakdown. It is of the utmost importance to keep your nervous system in good condition, as the nerves are the source of all bodily power. Mrs. Anna Kounz, 211 Mechanic St., Pueblo, Colo., says:

"For many years I suffered from nervous prostration; I was unable to do any house work and doctors failed to help me. Remedies I tried from druggists did not do me a particle of good. A neighbor told my husband about and he procured a bottle. After the first few doses I showed a marked improvement and after taking two bottles I was entirely cured. I have been perfectly well for years and cannot praise Dr. Miles' Nervine too highly.

If you are troubled with loss of appetite, poor digestion, weakness, inability to sleep; if you are in a general run down condition and unable to bear your part of the daily grind of life, you need something to strengthen your nerves. You may not realize what the matter with you, but that is no reason why you should delay treatment.

Dr. Miles' Nervine

has proven its value in nervous disorders for thirty years, and merits a trial, no matter how many other remedies have failed to help you. Sold by all druggists. If first bottle fails to benefit your money is returned. MILES MEDICAL CO., ELKHART, IND.

THE WAY OF A MAN

By EMERSON HOUGH

Copyright, 1907, by the Oeding Publishing Company

"Oh, she can't marry," went on Harry, "No difficulty about that. She has another beau who loves her to distraction and who doesn't in the least suspect a decent sort of a fellow, a young farmer of her own class."

"And in your belief that wedding should go on?"

"He shifted uneasily."

"When is this wedding to be?"

"Oh, naturally, very soon," he answered. "I am doing as handsome a thing as I know how to do. Some-times it's mighty hard to do the hand-some thing, even mighty hard to know what is the handsome thing itself."

"Yes," said I. "But who was I that I should judge him?"

"If you were just where I am," asked Harry Sheraton slowly, "what would you do? I'd like to do what is right, you know."

"Oh, no, you don't, Harry," I broke out. "You want to do what is easiest. If you wanted to do what is right you'd never ask me nor any one else. Don't ask me, because I don't know. Suppose you were in the case of that other young man who loves her? Suppose he did not know, or suppose he did know. What would he do for her?"

"Heavy end of the log for him," admitted he grudgingly. "That's true, sure as you're born."

"When one does not love a girl and sees no happiness in the thought of living with her all his life, what squares that, Harry, in your opinion?"

"I've just asked you," he rejoined.

"Why do you ask me? You say one ought to know what is right in his own case without any such asking, and I say that isn't always true. Oh, dash it all, anyway. Why are we made the way we are?"

"If only the girl in each case would be content by having the handsome thing done by her!" said I bitterly.

CHAPTER XX.

The Uncovering of Gordon Orme.

It is not necessary for me to state that dinner in the Sheraton hall, with its dull mahogany and its shining silver and glass, was barely better than a nightmare to me, who should have been most happy. At least there remained the topics of politics and war, and never was I more glad to plunge into such matters than upon that evening. In some way the dinner hour passed. Miss Grace platted a headache and left us, my mother asked leave, and presently our hostess and host departed. Harry and I remained to stare at each other moodily. I admit I was glad when finally he announced his intention of retiring.

A servant showed me my own room. My restlessness grew upon me so that some time past midnight, not having made an attempt to prepare for sleep, I arose, went quietly down the stairs and out at the front door, to see if I could find more peace in the open air. This time every one of the household had retired. I was surprised, therefore, when I saw a faint streak of light from one of the windows flash out across the lawn. Not wishing to intrude, I changed my position. Almost at that instant I saw the figure of a man appear from the shrubbery and walk directly toward the house, apparently headed for the window from which emerged the light.

I watched him advance, and when I saw him reach the heavily barred trellis which ran up to the second gallery, I felt confirmed in my suspicion that he was a burglar. Approaching carefully in the shadow, I made a rapid run at him, and as his head was turned at the time, managed to catch him about the neck by an arm. His face, thus thrown back, was illuminated by the flare of light. I saw him plainly. It was Gordon Orme!

The light disappeared. There was no cry from above. The great house, lying dark and silent, heard no alarm. I did not stop to reason about this, but tightened my grip upon him in so full a fashion that all his arts in wrestling could avail him nothing. I had caught him from behind, and now I held him with a hand on each of his arms above the elbow. No man could escape me when I had that hold.

He did not speak, but struggled silently with all his power. At length he relaxed a trifle. I stood close to him, slipped my left arm under his left along his back, and caught his right arm in my left hand. Then I took from his pocket a pistol which I put into my own. I felt in his clothing and finally discovered a knife, hidden in a scabbard at the back of his neck. I drew it out—a long bladed, ivory thing I found it later, with gold leafing to the hilt and woven into the steel.

He eased himself in my grip as much as he could, waiting, as I know, for his chance to twist and grapple with me. I could feel him breathing deeply and easily, resting, waiting for his time, using his brains to aid his body with perfect deliberation.

"It's no use, Orme," I said to him. "I can wring your neck or break your back or twist your arms off, and I've a notion to do them all. If you make any attempt to get away I'm going to kill you. Now come along."

I showed him ahead of me, his arms plucked, until we found a seat far away in a dark portion of the great front yard. Here I pushed him down and took the other end of the seat, covering him with his own pistol.

"Now," I demanded, "tell me what you are doing here."

"You have your privilege at guessing," he sneered in his easy, mocking way. "Have you never taken a little adventure of this sort yourself?"

"In Virginia we keep the shotgun for men who crawl around houses at night," I said. "What are you doing here?"

"You have no right to ask. It is not your house."

"There was a light," said I. "For that reason I have a right to ask. I am a guest, and a guest has duties as well as a host."

"If I give you parole," he asked, "will you believe me and let us talk freely?"

"Yes," said I slowly. "You are a liar, but I do not think you will break parole."

I threw the pistol on the seat between us. "What is it you want to know?" I asked. "And again I ask you why are you here when you are supposed to be in South Carolina?"

"I have business here. You cost me my chance out there in the west," he answered slowly. "In turn I cost you your chance there. I shall cost you other things here. I said you should pay my debt." He motioned toward my neck with his thin finger.

"Yes, you saved my life," I said, "and I have hated you for that ever since."

"Will you make me one promise?" "Perhaps, but not in advance."

"And will you keep it?"

"If I make it."

"Will you promise me to do one thing you have already promised to do?"

"Orme, I am in no mood to sit here and gossip like an old woman."

"Oh, don't forget! But now as to this little promise. I was only going to ask you to do as much as I ask, or less."

"Very well, then."

"I want you to promise to marry Grace Sheraton."

I laughed in his face. "I thought you knew me better than that, Orme. I'll attend to my own matters for myself. I shall not even ask you why you want so puerile a promise. I am much of a mind to shoot you. Tell me, who are you, and what are you, and what are you doing in this country?"

"Do you really want to know?" he smiled.

"Assuredly I do. I demand it."

"I believe I will tell you, then," he said quietly. He moved for a time before he raised his head and went on.

"I am Charles Gordon Orme, marquis of Butte and Rayne. Once I lived in England. For good reasons I have since lived elsewhere. I am what is known as a black sheep—a very, very black one."

"Yes, you are a renegade, a renegade, a blackguard and a murderer," I said to him calmly.

"All of those things and much more," he admitted cheerfully and calmly. "I am two persons or more than two. I can't in the least make all this plain to you in your grade of intelligence. Perhaps you have heard of exchangeable personalities?"

"I have heard of double personalities and double lives," I said, "but I have never admired them."

"We will waive your admiration. Let me say that I can exchange my personality. The Jews used to say that men of certain mentality were possessed of a devil. I only say that I was a student in India. One phrase is good as another. The Swami Himmadatta was my teacher. I am a raj yogi. I have taken the eight mystic steps. For years even here in this country I have kept up the sacred exercises of breath, of posture, of thought."

"All that means nothing to me," I said.

"No; it means nothing for me to tell you that I have learned Yama, Niyama, Asana, Pranayama, Pratyahara, Dharana, Dhyana and Samadhi. Yes, I was something of an adept once. I learned calm, meditation, contemplation, introspection, superconscious reasoning—how to cast my own mind to a distance, how to bring other minds close up to me. But," he smiled with all his old mockery—"mostly I failed on Pratyahara, which says the senses must be quelled, subdued and set aside. All religions are alike to me, but they must not intrude on my own religion. I'd loathe to die than not enjoy. My religion, I say, is to play the great games—to adventure and above all to enjoy. That is why I am in this country, also why I am in these grounds tonight."

"You are playing some deeper game than I know?"

"I always am. How could you be expected to understand what it took me years to learn? But I suppose in your case you need a few practical and concrete proofs. Let me show you a few things. Here, put your hand on my heart."

I obeyed. "You feel it beat?" he said. "Now it stops beating, does it not?" And as I live, it had stopped!

"Feel on the opposite side," he commanded. I did so, and there was his heart, clear across his body, and beating as before! "Now I shall stop it again," he remarked, calmly. And I swear it did stop, and resumed when he liked!

"Put your hand upon my abdomen," he said. I did so. All at once his body seemed thin and empty, as a spent cocon.

"I draw all the organs into the thorax," he explained. "When one has studied under the Swami, as I have, he gains control over all his different muscles, voluntary and involuntary. He can, to a great extent, cut off or increase the nerve force in any muscle. Simple tricks in magic become easy to him. He gains, as you may suppose, a certain influence over men, and more especially over women, if that be a part of his religion. It was not with the Swami. It is with me!"

"You are a strange man, Orme," I said, drawing a long breath, "the most dangerous man, the most singular, the most immoral I ever knew."

"No," he said, reaching for his cigar case, "I was only born without what you call morals. They are not necessary in abstruse thought. Yet in some ways I retain the old influences of my own country. For instance, I loathe as readily as I speak the truth, because it is more convenient; but though I am a liar, I do not break my word of honor. I am a renegade, but I am still an English officer! You have caught that distinction?"

"Yes, I would trust you," I said, "if you gave me your word of honor."

He turned full upon me. "By Jove, old chap," he said, with a queer note in his voice, "you touch me awfully close. You're like men of my own family—you stir something in me that I used to know. The word of a fighting man—that's the same for yours and mine, and that's why I've always admired you. That's the sort of man that wins with the best sort of women."

"You were not worth the best sort of woman," I said to him. "You had no chance with Ellen Meriwether."

"No, but at least every fellow is worth his own fight with himself. I wanted to be a gentleman once more. Oh, a man may mix with a woman of any color. He does all over the world. He may find a mistress in any nationality of his own color or a wife in any class similar to his own. He does all over the world. But a sweetheart and a wife are like myself and myself honestly gone like that—when he begins to fight inside himself, old India against old England, renegade against gentleman—I say that's awfully bitter—when he sees the other fellow win. You won?"

"No," said I, "I did not win. You know that perfectly well. There is no way in the world that I can win. All I can do is to keep parole—well, with myself, I suppose."

"You touch me awfully close," he mused again. "You play big and fair. You're a fighting man and a gentleman and—excuse me, but it's true—an awful ass all in one. You're such an ass I almost hesitate to play the game with you."

"Thank you," said I. "But now take a very stupid fellow's advice. Leave this country and don't be seen about here again, for if so you will be killed."

"Precisely," he admitted. "In fact, I was just intending to arrange a permanent departure. That was why I was asking you to promise me to—hush, to keep your own promise. There's going to be war next spring. The dreams of this strange new man Lincoln, out in the west, are going to come true. There will be catastrophes here. That is why I am here. War, one of the greatest games, is something that one must sometimes cross the globe to play. I will be here to have a hand in this one."

"You have had much of a hand in it already," I hazarded. He smiled frankly.

IMMEDIATE EFFECT OF GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY IS SOON REALIZED.

According to my experience I do not consider there is anything to equal Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root for kidney affection. Twice it relieved me when I was completely helpless.

The last time I was traveling in Texas, when my kidneys became affected, and for ten days I suffered excruciating pain, accompanied with severe chills. Several years previous, having been relieved of a similar attack, I naturally sought relief as before, from Swamp-Root.

After using four of the large size bottles, I was completely restored and went on my way rejoicing and praising Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. This was three years ago, and I have had no indication of the return of the affection.

PASTOR RUSSELL IS HOMEWARD BOUND

Foreign Missions Investigation Committee on the Atlantic.

They Will Report at a Mass Meeting in the New York Hippodrome Next Sunday Afternoon at 3 o'clock—The Interest Centered in Country Wide.

Mid-Ocean, March 24.—On the Atlantic, speeding homeward, the Foreign Missions Investigation Committee in communication by wireless. It is understood that arrangements have been made for a public mass meeting in New York's largest auditorium, the Hippodrome, next Sunday afternoon, to hear the report of this committee respecting its findings. A report of the same will be given in these columns.

Pastor Russell's discourse today was reminiscent of Arabia as the Cradle of our Race. His text was: "As all in Adam die, even so all in Christ shall be made alive; every man in his own order."—1 Cor. xv, 22, 23.

Arabia is accredited with being the ancient Eden, eastward in which was the specially prepared Garden wherein our first parents had their trial—not for a reward of heaven or a punishment of eternal torment, but for a reward of everlasting life under perfect earthly conditions, or for a penalty of death. Here man, created very good, in the image of his Creator, shined and became subject to the penalty of sin—"The soul that sinneth, it shall die." Here also is Mount Ararat, on which the ark rested after the flood, and from which came forth the family of Noah to people the earth afresh. Thus was Arabia twice the Cradle of mankind.

"Israel Hath Not Obtained." The first declaration of the Gospel, the first mention that Divine favor would yet rescue mankind from the reign of sin and death, was made, not publicly, not to all of the race, but merely to one man, the friend of God—Abraham.

But God gave Abraham words only, "Wonderful words of life"—that in him and in his posterity eventually all the families of the earth should be blessed. But there was not a sign of change so far as the Divine dealings were concerned. Doubtless it was because God foreknew that approximately four thousand years would intervene before the blessing of the world that He added the oath to His promise.

In due time, at Mount Sinai, God entered into a Covenant with the children of Israel, by which He agreed to bless them and to fulfill in them the Abrahamic promise that they, as Abraham's seed, should bless all the nations of the earth. The only condition connected with the promise was that they were to show their fitness to be the Divine channel. Full of joy and faith the Israelites obligated themselves thus.

Alas! much they knew not. They did not realize their own weakness and imperfection through the fall and their inability to fulfill the Divine requirements, the spirit of the Law of their Covenant. They soon found that while the Law said, "He that doeth these things shall live," they were not able to do those things; and therefore they were all dying like other men. That God decreed them and entrapped them? No, God's proposition was simple enough. He was merely teaching them a great lesson—that sin as a disease had taken hold upon humanity and that, however willing they might be, all were weak and powerless and unable to fulfill their good intentions.

As a consolation God assured Israel that He would send the Deliverer, one still greater than Moses, who had delivered them from the Egyptian bondage. This great Deliverer would deliver them from the greater bondage of sin and death, so that they would be able to obey the Divine Law and be used of God in blessing and instructing other nations. This Greater than Moses, they were assured, would inaugurate a New Law Covenant, based upon better sacrifices than the blood of bulls and goats, and He was known to them as Messiah, the Messenger of the New Covenant.

Heirs of the Promise.

We must never lose sight of the kernel of the Gospel Message. The ultimate blessings of the Messianic Kingdom, through the Seed of Abraham, will be to all the families of the earth, but previously, the Divine work is the calling of the Seed of Abraham which is to do that work of blessing. The promise was not made to all the families of the earth, but to Abraham and his Seed. Hence the heirs of the promise are not all the families of the earth, but the Seed of Abraham.

To the salute of Galatia, who had been Gentiles, but had accepted Jesus and were trusting to become joint-heirs with God's dear Son in His Messianic Kingdom as members of His Bride Elect, Saint Paul writes, "If ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's Seed, and heirs according to the promise." (Galatians III, 29) How strange that we should have lost sight of this great inheritance! With our Lord, as Abraham's Seed, we shall inherit the earth; as it is written, "It will give thee the heathen for Thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for Thy possession."

"I think it's wrong for a married man to gamble." "It's worse than wrong; it's idiotic. His wife gives him his life; he loses, and contributes the proceeds of his wife's life."

Education.

While the drift of our modern life in the outside world may be toward technical and scientific education, the drift in college is still toward the great teacher—the man of thought, provoking power and of spiritual capacity; sincere and genuine both in scholarship and in character, of whom one can speak, as Carlyle spoke of Schiller, "a high ministering servant at Truth's altar, and here his worthily of the office he held."—The Century.

Revolutionized Fire Fighting.

Steam revolutionized fire fighting, as it did many other interests. It took the romance from it, and put efficiency into it. The giant steam got behind the aqueducts and forced streams through pipes and hose with great power. Firemen continued to "run with the machine," but it was a hose reel, 19th century invention.

A Preventive of Tea Kettle Scale.

Every housewife who lives where water is hard, knows how the lime and other salts form a coating on the inside of the kettle. This may be largely prevented, and the outside of the teakettle kept free from soot and grease, by washing thoroughly inside and outside every day or so, with hot water and Gold Dust.

The hard lime and other salts are dissolved by the Gold Dust and the inside of the kettle will be kept smooth much longer if thus cared for. Be sure to rinse thoroughly with clear warm water, then refill with cold water for heating.

The Flag in History.

It can hardly be doubted that flags, or their equivalent, were used very early in the world's history. Among the buried remnants of early races and civilization are found records of objects which were apparently used as ensigns. These are accepted as evidence that the ancient Egyptian soldiers were not without their standards. The Assyrians and Jews also carried something similar in design and purpose.

Moving-Picture Lion Hunting.

The inhabitants of Fontainebleau are protesting against some of the uses to which the picturesque forest, with its huge volcanic boulders, is being put by some of the cinematographic companies. There was a lion hunt with a real lion in the forest of Fontainebleau a few days ago, and the people who live in the neighborhood think that freedom in trade matters is being pushed somewhat too far. —Paris Letter to London Express.

Averted Crossing Tragedy.

The prompt action of a country girl, near Plintona, County Tyrone, Ireland, was the means of averting a tragedy, not long since. A cart was proceeding over a level crossing when a passenger train was seen approaching. A girl, seeing the dangerous predicament of the occupants of the cart, ran along the railway line waving a red petticoat. The engine-driver's attention was attracted, and the speed of the train was at once reduced.

Aerate Your Boiled Water.

Drinking water that has been boiled is usually so flat and tasteless that people are apt to dislike it exceedingly, and even though the health authorities order its use, many people will run the risk of contracting typhoid fever rather than take this precaution. If boiled water is thoroughly cooled and shaken up well in a bottle half filled, it will become aerated and have the sparkle and taste of freshly drawn well water.—Housekeeper.

Every hat's a hat, but not every hat's a Roelofs "SMILE." The difference between the Roelofs "SMILE" Hat and the others is the difference between joy and gloom.

Put a "SMILE" Hat on your head and "SMILE" waves will break over your face. There's no more chance for sadness in a "SMILE" Hat than there is for dissatisfaction, because satisfaction is guaranteed. Roelofs "SMILE" Hats are good—they're more than good. They're great. Try one on even though you don't care to try it out.

Study these exclusive R-C-H features
You'll See Them on Many Other Cars--Next Year

The enormous demand for the R-C-H—greater by thousands than for any other car in the history of the industry during a like period of its existence—is not due alone to its wonderful sturdy construction or its price. It is due to the number of advanced ideas in design—ideas which everyone recognizes as great improvements, but which have never before been incorporated in a car at a popular price. Look them over!

And here's a little side-light on construction strength—one of many. A well-known English explorer desired a car to take with him into Africa—a car staunch and sturdy enough to travel where anything on wheels could go. He selected the R-C-H after a thorough test of a number of cars, many of them costing several times its price. So will you if you make the same test.

"If you can't get an R-C-H, and want a car as good, you'll pay a thousand dollars more."

ENGLISH-TYPE BODY

This marks a greater advance in body construction than the introduction of fore-doors. It is almost universally used abroad on high-grade cars, and a few of the very highest-priced American cars have recently adopted it; but it is exclusive to the R-C-H among cars at a popular price. Its lines are exceptionally graceful and beautiful; it is more comfortable and offers a better protection from dust than any other type of body. The front seat may be so well heated from the engine that a robe is unnecessary except in zero weather. In summer large rain-proof ventilators afford coolness and perfect ventilation.

The one-piece windshield—another European idea—affords much better protection from the elements than the common folding type.

There are two more features that every manufacturer is bound to come to. A right side drive on American cars is an absurdity. It was originally copied from European models; but in Europe the rules of the road are just the reverse of what they are here. And with few exceptions manufacturers have followed it blindly, much to the discomfort of the American motorist.

We shall be glad to arrange demonstration to suit your convenience if you will write, telephone or call. But we urge promptness, for we cannot increase our allotment by one car—and there won't be enough to go 'round.
